Q18. Make a Précis of the following passage and give it a suitable title: Millions of our people pass their nights in total darkness and content themselves with the flickering flame of firewood used for cooking their night meal as a source of light. Imagine the dismal psychological impact on the minds of the people who see nothing but darkness for half their span of life. Science has made electricity as the greatest servant of man and our engineers can and must do research on transmission of power to the rural areas cheaply. If our resources of conventional fuels are as inadequate as they are, we must harness the energy of the atom to generate electricity. In the struggle for survival, every means placed at our disposal by the discoveries of modern science and technology must be adopted by us to cut short the road to prosperity. We have to co-exist with the bullock-carts and jet aero planes at the same time if we are not to be left behind once again in the race for survival. We missed the industrial revolution of the nineteenth century because of our bondage. We cannot afford to miss the scientific [passage cut off at the bottom of the source scan]
