Q17. Write a summary of “An Astronomer's Views of the Universe”. OR Discuss the qualities of Rudolf Rassendyll in the light of his role played in the novel “The Prisoner of Zenda”

Q18. Make a Précis of the following passage and give it a suitable title: It is more important to give our young students of science an awareness of the scepticism and open-mindedness that is part of the very soul of science. Of course it would be absurd to ask them to do serious research or formulate theories, but the science course should at least teach them what an immense part is played by research in real science and mention some of the tremendous revolutions in theory which have marked the great advances of science. Let them not think that any branch of science is a subject that one can sit down and learn. Let them realize that science is essentially a creative activity.
