Note: Question No. (i) about summary writing is compulsory carrying 06 marks while rest of the questions carry 03 marks each. (6 + 4x3= 18) In China the lunar calendar is still used to determine traditional holidays like Chinese New Year. Since the lunar calendar is based on the phases of the moon-- which has a shorter cycle than the sun – Chines New Year is never on the same day each year, but typically falls somewhere between January 21st and February 20th. Celebrations can actually last up to a month. Here are some traditions associated with the Chinese New Year. Prior to the first day of the New Year it is customary for families to thoroughly clean their houses. Doing this is said to clear out any bad luck from the previous year and to make the house ready to accept good luck for the coming year. All cleaning must be finished before the New Year's Day so there is no chance of accidently throwing out the good fortune of the New Year. Wearing black is not allowed due to its association with death, however, wearing red is encouraged as the colour is associated with warding off bad spirits. Another popular custom is to hang up signs and posters on doors and windows with the Chinese word fu written on them, which means luck and happiness. Buying flower for the home is also common since they symbolize the coming of spring and a new beginning. On the eve of the Chinese New Year it is customary to visit relatives and partake in a large dinner where a number of specific foods are served. It is typical for a Chinese family to make eight to nine dishes for the New Year's eve Dinner because in Chinese language the word 'eight' means 'prosperity' and the word "nine" means "long lasting". Note: Question No. (i) about summary writing is compulsory carrying 06 marks while rest of the questions carry 03 marks each. (6 + 4x3= 18) Today life has become more dynamic and innovative. Gone are the days when the medical and engineering fields were the only available choices. Now whole world of non-traditional careers, from IT, electronic media and web networking to online business portals and fashion designing, are available for the young people. However, there still remains the question of choosing the right profession. Unfortunately, for most of us the right career merely means a profession that guarantees a profitable livelihood, but consideration like interest in the job and mental satisfaction should also be given importance. The scope of any field in terms of market demand should also be considered very > seriously. We cannot practically deny the significance of hiring trends; for example, a decade ago when computer science professionals were in demand, masses of MCS (Master of Computer Science) student flooded the market with extremely disappointing results. Career counsellors are generally well informed about such trends. They can play a key role in guiding the youth towards a rewarding profession. This highlights the importance of a full-time career counseling department at the school level. The job of this department should be to determine the personalities of students, to observe and analyse their interests and to suggest suitable careers according to their aptitude. Most of the parents and student find themselves in a fix when deciding on a career. Parents are unaware of market trends, educational system and the scope of any particular discipline. Similarly, 14-15 year old students are not mature enough to make such life-changing decisions. So it is widely felt that career counselling must be promoted from school level. Questions: (i) Summarize the given passage. Also suggest a suitable title to it. (Compulsory) (ii) Why are now a days non-traditional careers more attractive for youth? (iii) According to the writer what is meant by "right profession"? (iv) Why should we consider the scope of any field? (v) What is the importance of career-counseling department at school level? (vi) How do career-counselors help you choose the right profession? (vii) Give the Synonyms of the words that are underlined in the passage. (Any three)
